Biodynamic Compost Making Workshop

Composting is not as simple as putting green waste into a compost bin, although that is part of it.

Farmers and gardeners alike are invited to come along and learn how to create rich compost to help fertilise your soil.

Join biodynamic educator, Ian Cuming, for a relaxed and educational day among friends at Malt Farm, learning more about the biodynamic principals that can benefit both the environment and your property or home garden.

Saturday 23rd June

10 am – 4 pm

The cost is $25 per participant.

This includes course notes and tea / coffee.

Please wear work clothes and boots, and bring a garden fork.

Malt Farm is located at Kubeil Road, Merton.

If you are coming from Melbourne – turn right 1 km past the Merton Store.

If you are coming from Mansfield – turn 1st left after the Strathbogie turnoff.

Bookings are essential as numbers are limited.

Contact Pat Dowling now but no later than 15th June.

Phone 03 57 789 680, email farmerpat@maltfarm.org
